Death Comes to First Lady of the Land

Washington, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president of the United States, died at the White house at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Death came after a brave struggle of months against Bright's disease, with complications.

The president was completely unnerved by the shock and his grief was heartrending. He bore up well under the strain, however, and devoted himself to his daughters.

The end came while Mrs. Wilson was unconscious. Her illness took a turn for the worse shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon and from then on she grew gradually weaker.

Kneeling at the bedside at the end were the president and their three daughters. Dr. Cary T. Grayson, U. S. N., and a nurse were in the room and just outside a door were Secretary McAdoo and Francis B. Sayre, Mrs. Wilson's sons-in-law, and Secretary Tumulty.

Both houses of congress adjourned when Mrs. Wilson's death was announced and for a brief while the wheels of the government practically stopped, while every one paid respect to the loss of the president.

The beginning of the end came at 10 o'clock this morning when Dr. E. P. Davis of Philadelphia, who had been called in for consultation realized that the time for hope had passed. He took the president into the red room of the White house and there in a broken voice told him the truth. Mr. Wilson's face blanched, but he bore the shock well. He was informed the end was only a question of hours.

Mr. Wilson then took his daughters, Mrs. W. G. McAdoo, Mrs. Sayre and Miss Margaret Wilson, aside and told them of their mother's condition. Until then they had thought there was a chance for recovery.

Forty to Sixty Thousand For Spending Money

The Arizonans are trooping in. They are here not only in quantity, but in quality. A better class of them never flooded the lobby of the Hollenbeck nor overran the sands of Venice. It sounds funny to talk about a "better class of Arizonans," because over there every man who breaks clean is as good as another, and the size of his pocket-book makes less difference than it would in a city. Besides, most folks in Arizona have the right kind of pocketbook, and when they get here they prove it. In a dozen cities in Arizona the banks cash checks from $40,000 to $60,000 a day for from two to three months to supply the Arizonans in Southern California with spending money.—Los Angeles Times.

Republicans Select a Full State Ticket

A Phoenix dispatch dated August 5th, says: A full state ticket was selected by representative Republicans from all of the fourteen counties, who met here yesterday. The following names will appear on the Republican ballot at the primaries September 8th:

Senator, Lorenzo Hubbell, Apache county.

Congress, T. L. Eads, Phoenix.

Governor, Ralph Cameron, Phoenix.

Secretary of State, C. G. Cole, Greenlee county.

Auditor, R. C. Smith, Navajo county.

Attorney-General, Joseph E. Morrison, Phoenix.

Mine Inspector, Dave Morgan, Yavapai county.

Treasurer, E. M. Dickerman, Tucson.

Corporation Commission, T. E. Campbell, Prescott; R. E. Merritt, Globe; R. N. Davidson, Phoenix.

School Superintendent, Kate Christy, Phoenix.

Tomorrow an action to mandamus the Secretary of State to call an election for three tax commissioners instead of two will be brought. Under a ruling of the Attorney-General one of the present commissioners holds over.

The meeting showed that the Republican party of Arizona is very much alive. Everything was done according to rule. A committee passed upon the credentials of all delegates.

There was some talk of fusion with the Progressives, but as they were present from only five counties, the matter was dropped.

Navajo County Mail Contractors Put One Over

Among the unfrenzied financiers of the wild and woolly West Mr. E. R. DeWitt, of Snowflake, Arizona, will rank as A1, copper-bottomed and copper-fastened, says the Los Angeles Times. He has a contract with the Postoffice Department for carrying parcel post matter from Holbrook to Snowflake, thirty miles, at $1.60 per 200 pounds. Mr. DeWitt needed a lot of rolled barley. He bought five tons of the Mesa Milling Company and shipped it from Mesa to Snowflake in 200 sacks of 50 pounds each. For railroad transportation of this barley from Mesa to Holbrook, a distance of several hundred miles, and team transportation from Holbrook to Snowflake, thirty miles, he paid the United States government $1.08, and the United States government paid him for carrying it the thirty miles $1.60. He received $52 more than he paid for transportation. He got his 200 sacks of rolled barley carried for nothing and obtained $52 besides.

Surely, Mr. DeWitt knew how to do it.
